

designenergetics
shaping spaces, shaping lives

Traditional Elegance

Back in the 1980s, prior to training in integrative (sacred) geometry, Design Energetics architect Jon Allen was already creating beautiful and harmonious homes. This development in Oxfordshire is a bespoke private gated development. The five houses, each with a unique plan, are constructed in local stone, with oak windows and doors and stone slate roofs. Each house has its own large garden, but all also share a communal swimming pool and tennis court.

